

Ethical Policy

At Southern Green believe in the ethical values of honesty, openness, social responsibility and caring for others. We will strive to be ethical in everything we do.

We endeavour to behave ethically in how we treat our staff and how we run our business, including our relationships with suppliers and external organisations.

As a registered practice of the LI Southern Green provide the assurance of professional staff supported by a trusted professional body. The thirteen standards within the Landscape Institute Code of Conduct are central to our profession and define a code of practice for our professional activities.

In our business activities we seek to promote a healthy environment and to minimise our impact on the environment. Under the Royal Charter of the Landscape Institute all registered landscape architectural practices must seek to conserve, protect and enhance the natural and built environment for the benefit of our clients and the general public.

We will ensure we are fair to our customers in the fees we charge. We seek to achieve this by always set out fees clearly in plain language. In accordance with professional values, on each project the correct approach is always prioritised, without external influence and avoiding any conflict of interest. Should an issue arise which brought into question our ethical standards, adherence to the standards set out within the Landscape Institute Code of Conduct would be prioritised beyond any commercial opportunity.

Simon Green

Director

Ros Southern

Director

Liam Haggarty

Director

