Welcome Ethan!

We would like to welcome Ethan to the SG family!

Ethan holds a BA Honors Architecture degree, completed in Manchester. We look forward to working with Ethan and supporting the development of his career in the world of Landscape Design.

Find out more about Ethan here.

Green light for Elizabeth Landmark

A new major public access landmark, entitled Ascendant: The Elizabeth Landmark created by artist Simon Hitchins was recently awarded planning approval – something SG are extremely proud to have been a part of.

Read our blog to find out more.

Queens Garden - planning approved

The landmark public realm scheme for Queens Gardens in Hull City Centre has been granted planning approval following a unanimous decision at the Planning Committee on 16th November. Find out more about this project here.

November!

November in full force! Back in November, Joe, Scott, Ed and Liam took part in Movember. Movember is a charity focusing on men's health. Read our blog here.

The calm after the storm...

The recent devastating impact of Storm Arwen, swiftly followed by Storm Barra, has brought into sharp focus the importance of woodland and tree management. This is not only to maintain a healthy balance and succession within both designed schemes and our natural landscapes, but also to ensure the health and safety of the general public. Read our blog here.

Winter plants

With the winter solstice just around the corner (21st December) the SG team would like to share some of our best loved plant species for winter interest, along with some fun facts about some Christmas favourites. Read our blog to find out more about some classic Christmas shrubs, along with some top tips from our team about the best species that brighten up our planting schemes throughout the dreary winter months.

Watford Park Improvements

It has been great to revisit one of our past projects, as we have recently received some lovely autumn photos of Oxhey Park taken by Tom Willmott.

Southern Green had carried out a series of park and cemetery improvements for Watford Borough Council, funded by Section 106.
